As a Training Advisor with more than 20 years of experience, Roger brings a unique perspective on training system analysis, design, development, implementation, and evaluation to enhance our clients' training programs. In addition, he performs Gap Analyses to help clients ensure their training program meets the requirements of PER-005. During his career, Roger has developed expertise in power plant operations maintenance and training, training program development, training program coordination, and abnormal and emergency operations development and training. He also has experience in customer support, market training, and technical documentation.

Roger shared some insights into his career, current position, and past accomplishments:

When and why did you decide to pursue a career in your field?

Speaking from the energy field perspective, probably in the U.S. Navy. I had two tours as an instructor at the prototypes for reactor operators and realized I really enjoyed training. There we took the operators who had completed six months of classroom instruction on the basics of power production and trained them on all aspects of power plant operations.

What do you like best about your job?

Helping the customer is number one. Learning new things each day is number two.

Meet the Expert: Roger Kirkpatrick

What project are you most proud of?

I was a team member that developed two PER-005 webinars for PER-005-2 Readiness. While I was part of a team working on it, I was extremely satisfied when the webinars were completed.

How has your job changed over the past few years?

It really hasn't changed that much over the past few years. Even with company changes, my job has remained basically the same.

Give one word that describes you best.

Picky (to a fault)

What motivates you?

Doing a great job, whether it's a work or home project.
